

∴ Welcome to Mt. Fuji ∴

At 3776 meters, Mt. Fuji is the highest mountain in Japan. The mountain's beautiful near perfect cone shape has drawn the hearts of Japanese since ancient times. Mt. Fuji, the symbol of Japan, is a must see!

Mt. Fuji hiking in Okuniwa Nature Park

There are a great number of ways to enjoy Mt. Fuji, but the most direct and easiest way to appreciate the mountain's natural beauty is the hiking in Okuniwa Nature Park near the 5th station. It is a site typical of Mt. Fuji's parasitic volcanoes. You can observe unique alpine plants such as hemlock fir and larch that have endured the harsh weather for centuries. You will be impressed by the snake-like roots across the lava. As you follow the path, the splendid view of the Mt. Fuji's summit will unfold before your eyes if the weather is fine. You can also see the highest line of plant life and hear the song of wild birds. It is said that the scenery in this park is so beautiful that Tengu, a fabulous long nosed Japanese creature, played there.
